ISO 14001:2015

Environmental aspects specified below are based on 5 primary complexity categories relating to the nature & gravity of the environmental impact of an organisation.

High – environmental aspects with significant nature & gravity (typically manufacturing or processing operations with significant impacts in several of the environmental aspects)

Medium – environmental aspects with medium nature & gravity (typically manufacturing organisations with significant impacts in some of the environmental aspects)

Low – Environmental aspects with low nature & gravity (typically organisations of an assembly type environment with few significant aspects)

Limited – environmental aspects with limited nature & gravity (typically organisations of an office type environment)

Special – these require additional & unique consideration at the audit planning stage

If your business operates in more than one sector please indicate below where the bulk of your operation sits.
